

The Susan Glaspell Society

www.susanglaspell.org

The purpose of the Susan Glaspell Society is the recognition of Susan Glaspell as a major American dramatist and fiction writer through the ongoing production of high-quality scholarship and critical analysis of all her works, participation in national and international conferences, performances and public readings of her plays, and commitment to reprinting and teaching her plays, stories, and novels.

Formed in 2003, the Susan Glaspell Society is an affiliate of the American Theater and Drama Society and the Society for the Study of American Women Writers. Members enjoy opportunities to present papers on SG Society-sponsored panels at major conferences such as ALA, SSAWW, ATDS at ATHE, and others in the U.S. and Europe. Members also participate in readings and performances of Glaspell's plays.
